BHP Billiton eyes venture with POSCO

SYDNEY: Anglo-Australian mining giant BHP Billiton said on Friday it was looking at developing an iron ore business in India's Orissa state with South Korean steelmaker POSCO.

The talks centered on a proposal to build a steel plant and port facility in the state, in conjunction with an iron ore mine, the company said.

The Australian newspaper on Friday said BHP and POSCO plan a A$12 billion (US$8.7 billion) project in the coastal state, to set up the biggest steel plant in India. — AFP
